

"The Papal system is not essentially monarchical and absolute, for the Pope does not make the law; he only guards, preserves, teaches and declares the law of God, the Supreme Lawgiver."

The Freeman's Journal—Catholic—gives utterance to a novel idea in regard to the democratic nomination for the Presidency in 1872. After declaring that the new departure was "intended not to heal breaches, but to reopen them," and after overthrowing and refuting the claims of Chief Justice Chase for the nomination, the Journal says:—

The wise course for the democratic party in 1872 would be to drop every man involved in political life, and to find—where the higher order of executive ability in our day and country is to be found—in some of the vast works of civil industry some man who, during trying crises, such as that of 1857; and again during the civil war, has known how to hold, and govern and attach to him tens of thousands of men and to manage economically many millions of capital entrusted to his care. We think there must be some such man. He will be the most likely to restore order to our distracted industries.

We may as well prepare for the millennium when such a state of things is reached. In the meantime, let all our religious brethren keep themselves quiet and comfortable these beautiful autumnal days, so that when the winter of their discontent cometh upon them they shall be found strong enough in the flesh and in the spirit to resist whatever tempestuous blasts may assail them.

The End of the Summer Carnival in the Country—The Returning Tide to Town.

The 1st of September, as by a law of the Medes and Persians, is pretty much throughout the United States accepted as the end of the summer carnival in the country, and the beginning of the fall season of business, fashion and amusements in town. And so, notwithstanding the bright skies which have ushered in this present September, and the promise which they give of a term of many days of pleasant summer weather, with the 1st of the month began a general retreat of the gay world from the seaside, the mountains and the springs back to business in town.

We have had a remarkable summer—remarkable for its prevailing cold, cloudy and tempestuous skies. From the tropical temperature of May we were apprehensive of the hottest summer in the memory of the oldest pensioner of the War of 1812; but June held back its "showers of shadowing roses," and July with us here (if the Hon. W. H. Seward's testimony of Walrusia may be accepted, and we think it good), was little better than an average July in Alaska, where, "while the American eagle soars aloft in all his newborn glory, the humming bird does not disdain to flutter." But still, as the number of days of snow, hail or rain, and of rain, hail and snow in a year in Alaska is about two hundred and ninety-seven, we dare say that our last July in New-York was a little drier, though not much, than the same month in Sitka. And yet the amphibious poet who sings,

Oh! carry me to Alaska,
Where it rains or snows always.

has had no reason to complain of drought at Long Branch since the 1st of July last. But it is over now. From those two great reservoirs of the Atlantic equatorial current of warm water—the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico—those nurseries of earthquakes, tornadoes and inundations, there came, towards the end of August, into the United States, by way of Florida and the Gulf Stream, a succession of cyclones, which, spreading all over the country east of the Rocky Mountains, wound up the summer in numerous heavy rains and floods and freshets. And so, literally drowned out at the seaside, at the springs and in the mountains, the gay world of fashion—pa, ma and the children—with the clearing skies of the 1st of September, began to pack up and pack off to town, and they have been coming over since, and

The cry is, "Still they come."

Long Branch begins to look lonesome, though the hotels are still open, and though General Grant still lingers at his "cozy cottage by the sea," and may yet linger there for several weeks to come. And we think he will be wise in doing so, for until after the first frost the White House is subject to the ague-breeding malaria from the broad expanse of the sweltering flats of the fresh water Potomac. But, as we have already suggested, the summer carnival in the country is ended, and what Pat would call the spring-ride of the fall season is setting into town. The main idea now is business and earnest work to make up for lost time. All the signs, too, of a brisk fall season are good—good crops, a good condition of the national finances and the currency, general confidence in business affairs and a general condition of health, peace and prosperity throughout the country—calling for a devout Thanksgiving day in November.

Meantime, however, the dreaded pestilence of the Ganges is marching this way again, and any day now a ship from Hamburg, Bremen or Liverpool may bring it to these shores. And still New York, which ought to be the cleanest and healthiest, remains the filthiest and sickliest, to the naked eye, of any great city in Christendom. And yet again, political corruption in high places, and vice and crime in their most horrid forms, are "walking like the pestilence at noonday" in our midst. Here, then, is work enough for our teachers of the Gospel and preachers of political reform, in all our churches and in all approaching political elections.

Political Reform—A New "Patent Combination."

We see little of good or little of evil in the declared purposes of the Council of Political Reform in this city, whose platform we print this morning. Disguise it as its promoters may, it is simply a party movement, undertaken in the interest of the republicans and against the democracy. No legitimate complaint can be made against it on this account; but the trick of organizing a third party to hold the two great parties responsible for their acts while in power is so full of rollicking fun that nobody can fail to enjoy it. Even the most stupid must see that an "organized protectorate" to keep watch and ward over our political system is only a political movement, and that its leaders will prove themselves as weak, vacillating and corrupt as the leaders of any other political movement. But this movement, if it has any significance at all, is only significant on account of its religious tendencies and purposes. There can be no doubt that this Council of Political Reform is intended to be a great Protestant counter movement to the Roman Catholic spectre which so many people affect to fear. The pointed references of the circular to the necessity of raising money naturally excites a suspicion that it is a mere catchpenny affair, but the respectability of the names appended to it precludes the acceptance of any such hypothesis. We must go a little deeper to get at its meaning. The circular is dated from "Plimpton Building." Where is the "Plimpton Building"? The City Directory enlightens us on this point, as follows:—"James L. Plimpton & Co., patent combination and other first class furniture, Nos. 9 and 10 Plimpton Building, 30 Stuyvesant street, corner East Ninth street."

This Council of Political Reform must as yet be a very small affair, or its funds have not been forthcoming, else it would hardly be obliged to go in with another "patent combination" in the occupancy of room No. 9. But it seems that this new "patent combination" has views of its own. It considers "the official co-operation of all the clergymen of the State" necessary to the purity and progress of our political action. Is this "patent combination" of "all the clergymen of the State," under the lead of Beecher and Bellows, likely to cure the evils of the Commonwealth? Are our people prepared to put their political interests out to nurse with these clergymen? These are the questions which the declared purposes of this movement suggest, and they also suggest their own answers. Let the persons attend to their flocks and not do evil rather than good by getting up "patent combinations" aimed against a large part of the religious community. If they will do this they will find the Commonwealth will get along pretty well without their assistance, and they may even be astonished to discover that the people can still correct, as they always have corrected, anything like misrule, unaided by the "official co-operation of all the clergymen of the State."

LITERARY CHIT-CHAT.

WILKIE COLLINS' NEW NOVEL, "Poor Miss Finch," commenced in Harper's Weekly for September 2, opens with a charming picture of a journey among the South Downs of Sussex. Madame Pratoung tells the story, a musical French widow, who becomes companion to "Poor Miss Finch," the only daughter of a clergyman and as beautiful as the Madonna di San Sisto.

LAMARTINE'S POSTHUMOUS WORK, his "Mémoires Inédites," have just appeared in Paris.

"A MAGNET" OF GEORGE FORDYCE, the philanthropist, is in press.

COLONEL FORNEY'S "ANECDOTES OF PUBLIC MEN" are to make a book as soon as the newspaper series arrives at a century. Think of 100 chapters of anecdotes!

RALPH WALDO EMERSON'S POSTHUMOUS AUTOBIOGRAPHY is to be called "Parasitus," and will appear early in November.

"EDWIN BOOTH: PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATIONS OF HIS CHARACTERS IN TRAGEDY AND COMEDY," drawn in costume, by W. J. Hennessey, from life, is the title of a forthcoming book, to be prefaced by a biography of the actor and criticisms on his style, by William Winter.

AND NOW THE REV. GEORGE CHILLMAN has attempted Walter Scott's life!

A NEW HANDBOOK OF IRELAND, by James Godkin and John A. Walker, is out in London.

J. G. CHAPMAN'S "ELEMENTARY DRAWING" will soon appear from the press of A. S. Barnes & Co.

"CHRISTIANITY IN THE WEST" is the title of another book, on the American contest of 1861 to 1865, to be written by A. S. Billingsley, late chaplain. It will give an account of the sufferings, conversions, prayers, dying requests, last words and deaths of officers and soldiers in the hospital, camp and prison, and on the battle field.

REV. LESTER TYRMAN HAS WRITTEN, and Harper & Brothers will publish in three volumes, "The Life and Times of John Wesley, Founder of the Methodists."

THE OLDEST NEWSPAPER IN ENGLAND is the Current, established in 1705, and edited until 1710 by no less a writer than Daniel Defoe.

O NOVA MUNDO, the Portuguese journal published in New York, complains of the utter neglect of Portuguese literature by the American and English press, which it attributes, in part, to the want of a due appreciation of the value of criticism on the part of Portuguese writers themselves. Brazil, the only American country where the Portuguese is prominent, has no critical periodical worthy of the name.

HARPER & BROTHERS will reprint that remarkable book "The Earth: A Descriptive History of the Phenomena and Life of the Globe," translated from the French of "Eusebe Reclus."

A HISTORY OF NEBRASKA, containing sketches of its cities and towns, its constitution and synopsis of its laws, its resources and advantages to emigrants, will appear in October from the press of W. R. Vaughan, Omaha. We make "history" fast in America. Twenty years ago Nebraska was a howling wilderness.

HAWTHORNE'S "ITALIAN JOURNALS" are now promised in October, in two volumes.

ADRIANACK MURRAY, the live preacher of Park street, Boston, has another volume of sermons in the press of J. R. Osgood & Co.

BRET HARTE'S NEW VOLUME OF POEMS is to be published in September by J. R. Osgood & Co.

JAMES PARTON HAS AGREED TO SELECT and edit a volume to be entitled "The Words of Washington."

NEW PUBLICATIONS RECEIVED.

From James R. Osgood & Co., Boston—"The Lost Despatch," translated from the German of "Friedrich Friedberg" by L. A. Williams; "Behind the Veil," by the author of "Six Months Hence."

From T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia—"The City of the Future," by the author of "Carroll's Year."

From J. R. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia—"Folle-Folle," by Ondaatje.

From G. P. Putnam & Sons—"The Life of John Fenderson Kennedy," by Henry T. Tuckerman.

THE INDIANS.

Failure of the Campaign Against the Arizona Apaches—The Scare in Southern California.

The campaign against the Apaches, owing to its alleged, to the interference of the Peace Commissioners, is a total failure; but the campaign of the United States against the white settlements is presented with success against the savages.

The Leaders of the Commune Sentenced.

The Third Instalment of the War Indemnity Paid—The Assembly Implored Not to Adjourn.

TELEGRAMS TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

VERSAILLES, Sept. 2-7 P. M.
The court martial having been deliberating with closed doors since six o'clock this morning, has just pronounced the following sentences on the members of the Commune brought before it for trial:—

Ferre and Lullier are condemned to suffer death. Urbain and Piquet to imprisonment for life at hard labor.

Assy, Billoray, Champy, Regere, Groussot, Verdure and Ferrat to deportation and confinement in a fortress.

Jourde and Rastoul to simple deportation. Cornet to six months' imprisonment and a fine of 50 francs.

Clement to three months' imprisonment. Desamps and Parent are acquitted.

PROCEEDINGS IN THE ASSEMBLY.
In the Assembly to-day M. Target proposed that the session be adjourned on the 15th instant until the 15th of November.

M. Pouyer-Quertier stated, in confirmation of the reports previously published in the journals, that the third instalment of the war indemnity, amounting to a half a milliard of francs, had been paid over to the Germans; and he implored the Assembly not to adjourn until it had provided ways and means for meeting the financial demands of the government.

THE GERMAN REPRESENTATION.
Herr Von Arnim presented his credentials as diplomatic representative of Germany to-day to President Tiers.

GERMANY.

Reassuring Explanations Regarding the Gastein Conference—The Anniversary of Sedan.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

BERLIN, Sept. 2, 1871.
The Prussian Cross Gazette states that the intention of sending to the diplomatic representatives of Germany abroad a circular communicating the character of the results arrived at in the negotiations at Gastein has been relinquished. Reassuring explanations will be sent only where disquietude is expressed.
